Dear Parishioners,

The following is the message I want to share with all of you written by Fr. Fabio Ciardi

“Be at peace with one another.” (Mk 9:50)

How welcome, in the midst of the conflicts that harm humanity in many parts of the world, is this invitation by Jesus to peace! It keeps hope alive when we realize that that he himself is peace and that he has promised to give us his peace.

Mark’s gospel places these words of Jesus at the end of a series of things said to his disciples, meeting at home in Capernaum, where he explains how they should live as his community. The conclusion is clear: everything must lead to peace, which contains every good.

It is a peace we are called to experience in our daily lives: in our families, at work, with those who have other ideas politically. It is a peace that is not afraid to face contrary opinions, which we need to speak about openly if we want a unity that is always more true and deep. It is a peace that, at the same time, demands that we should take care that our relationship of love never dwindles, because the other person is more valuable than any differences that may exist between us.

The same is true when faced with any kind of conflict. We must knit together among individuals and peoples relationships of listening, of love, to the point of ‘being ready to die for one another.’ It is necessary to set aside one’s own positions in order to understand the others, even though we know that we will not always manage to understand them completely. The other too can do the same with me and at times neither will the other, perhaps, understand me and my positions. But we want nonetheless to stay open to the other, even when there is difference and incomprehension, before all else saving our relationship.

The Gospel makes it a command: ‘Be at peace.’ Making it a command is a sign that serious and tough commitment is demanded. It is one of the most essential expressions of the love and mercy we are called to have for one another.

Queridos Feligreses,

El siguiente es el mensaje que quiero compartir con ustedes escrito por el Padre Fabio Ciardi:

“Estén en paz los unos con los otros.” (Mc 9, 50).

¡Qué entonada esta invitación de Jesús a la paz en medio de los conflictos que desgarran a la humanidad en tantas partes del mundo! Mantiene viva la esperanza, sabiendo que Él es la paz y ha prometido darnos su paz.

El Evangelio de Marcos recoge esta palabra de Jesús al término de una serie de dichos que dirige a sus discípulos, reunidos en casa en Cafarnaúm, en los que explica cómo debería vivir su comunidad. La conclusión es clara: todo debe llevar a la paz, la cual contiene todo bien.

Y esta paz estamos llamados a experimentarla en la vida cotidiana: en la familia, en el trabajo, con quien piensa distinto en política. Una paz que no teme encontrarse con opiniones discordantes, de las que hay que hablar abiertamente si queremos una unidad cada vez más verdadera y profunda. Una paz que exige al mismo tiempo que estemos atentos a que la relación de amor nunca falte, porque el otro vale más que las diferencias que pueda haber entre nosotros.

Lo mismo vale para cualquier tipo de conflicto: tejer entre personas y pueblos relaciones de escucha, de ayuda recíproca, de amor hasta “estar dispuestos a morir el uno por el otro”. Hace falta dejar de lado nuestras propias razones para entender las del otro, aun sabiendo que no siempre llegaremos a entenderlo hasta el fondo. También el otro hará probablemente lo mismo que yo y quizá tampoco él me entenderá a mí ni mis razones. Sin embargo, queremos permanecer abiertos al otro, aunque persistan las diferencias y la incompreensión, y salvar ante todo la relación con él.

El Evangelio lo plantea como un imperativo: “Vivid en paz”, señal de que requiere un compromiso serio y exigente. Es una de las expresiones más esenciales del amor y de la misericordia que estamos llamados a vivir unos con otros.
